

Family BBQ

Many holidays in the United States are on Mondays. This means that most workers have a three-day weekend. On summer holidays, friends and relatives get together and have a barbecue or picnic.

Children usually run and play while the adults prepare the food and talk.

Meat that is cooked on a grill outside tastes better than meat that is cooked in a microwave or on the stove. It smells better, too. Steak, hamburgers, hot dogs, potato salad, corn, and watermelon are popular foods for summer barbecues and picnics.
